FITZPATRICK & GOING,

SALINA, KANSAS.

THE JOURNAL.

THURSDAY FEB. 11, 1908.

St. Valentine's day next Sunday.

Auction sales are numerous this season.

Will March come in like a lion?—that's the question.

The snow drifts have gone—we hope to return no more.

Mr. Frank Goodnow arrived from the East last Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. A. C. Foot has just recovered from an attack of bilious fever.

Fair at Old Fellows' building.

B. F. Eggleston is canvassing for job work for the Salina Herald.

Mr. Frank Taylor is the happy father of a boy—born Monday night.

No trains from the west yesterday. Snow drifts in the Harker hills again.

Help the destitute soldiers by patronizing the Fair at Art Loan next week.

Mr. E. E. Sharpe started east Tuesday, to buy a stock of hardware for his Chicago store.

We are indebted to Mr. J. B. Stumma for the excellent account of the performing bear.

Harvey Jones, a London baker, has purchased lots in Gypsum City, will build, and start a bakery.

Mr. Upp, the artist, has returned, and is found as busy as ever at his studio in the Daily Block.

Mr. D. Macomber, of Gypsum creek, who has been lingering so long at death's door, died last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Radcliff, and Mrs. C. S. Martin and children joined the Legislative excursion to Leavenworth.

Judge and Mrs. Prescott intend visiting Wichita next week—the Judge attending the meeting of the G. A. R.'s.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Wellslager entertained their friends very handsomely at progressive euchre last Friday evening.

The Knights of Phylas gave a 23d anniversary ball on the 10th inst. From appearances it will be a very pleasant affair.

About seventy-five lots have been sold in the new M. E. College addition—the amount to be applied to the endowment fund.

Mr. Will Mitchell will remove the present house occupied by him near the Mitchell House, and put up a new residence in its stead.

One week ago last Sunday the rental of the Catholic church figured up to $2,000—the best rental yet obtained by that church.

The new residence of Mr. John J. Geis will cost in the neighborhood of $4,000, and will be one of the attractive residences of the city.

Messrs. Jackson & Jeffries plumbers, have dissolved partnership. Mr. Jeffries retiring. Mr. Jackson continues in the business.

Music by the Germania, Cadet and String bands. Interpersed with vocal music, at the entertainments of the Woman's Relief Corps next week.

The Fair at Art Loan of the Woman's Relief Corps commences next Monday, and will continue all the week, at the Odd Fellows' building.

"The People's Mutual Fire Insurance Co.," managed upon the successful plan of the National Mutual of Salina, is being organized in this city.

Judging from the programme published in another column the meeting of the Literary Society to-morrow evening will be unusually interesting.

Geo. P. Fessler started for Myers-town, Pa., Tuesday, to attend the funeral of his mother, whose death had been announced to him by telegram.

Mr. Frank Shaw lost on the last inst. a horse belonging to the fine team which has been so much admired by our citizens. The horse died of colic.

A runner told a certain citizen the other day that he knew of 21 commercial men by actual count who designed making Salina their residence in the spring.

Trains were bringing ties for the Salina & Lincoln road last week. A large quantity of piles were also hauled in. The men had gone out to commence work.

Messrs. Parker & Lewis are well along with the excavation work for their new business building on Seventh street. It is to be 20 x 70 feet and two stories high.

Mr. L. J. Adkinson, a former well-known farmer of Gypsum Valley, was a resident of Harper county for the last three years, has been visiting his relatives on Gypsum.

The Y. M. C. A. held their first prize service last Sunday afternoon—Mr. Geo. T. Woolley and Dr. Phillips. There was a large attendance and an interesting service.

Messrs. Braniff & Conrad in the arrangement of their self goods, have the most attractive exhibit that can be found anywhere. It is certainly a beautiful arrangement of goods.

G. W. Baker, Esq., the big stockman of Lincoln Center, came down last week and purchased the fine young Poland China boar, Stearns' 275, of Alex. Berg, at a good round price.

Piles for the Missouri Pacific bridges have been distributed along the line of the road between Chicago and Salina. The force are doing the best they can considering the weather.

Mr. A. B. Dickinson says, "I am very much improved in health, and can stand most any kind of a siege. I find a little infant boy is better than a whole world of medicine as a resource."

The leading travesty company of the age—the Jolly Pathfinders—will appear next Friday evening in "Scamps," the funniest musical comedy ever produced upon any stage. Their visit here is an event. Their music will be superb. Reserved seats 75 cts.

The severe winter does not seem to disturb the asphaltum pavement where it has been carefully laid. This severe test must make it the coming pavement for Salina. No other seems so neat and serviceable.

Mr. C. B. Underwood is to superintend the construction of the Masonic temple. The architect Mr. Nichols, was in town Tuesday, talking with the building committee, preparatory to perfecting the plans.

Last Tuesday a wandering dog, appearing to be mad, bit a dog belonging to Mr. E. Short at his place north of New Cambria. Mr. Short immediately killed his own dog, but did not succeed in killing the wanderer.

Mr. J. W. Yates designs removing to Nebraska, to engage in the asphaltum pavement business in that state. Mr. Fremont Simmons will pursue the business here, and is making arrangements for the spring work.

Prof. Hamilton was often taken for President Cleveland during his late visit in Washington. Using a Sol. Millerism, we bet the Prof. can beat the lungs of old Cleveland making a speech. And we will "put up" right now.

The JOURNAL was a week ahead of time in its announcement of the date of holding the Fair at Art Loan of the Woman's Relief Corps. The Fair will be held next week, commencing with Monday, at the Old Fellows' building.

We have had nearly spring weather since our last issue, and a warm sun dissolved the snow and brought an unlimited supply of mud. Tuesday night the weather cooled up again and yesterday morning it was moderately blustering.

Mr. J. J. Purcell will commence building a residence as soon as the weather will permit on the vacant land lying between Messrs. W. R. and J. J. Geis' residence properties. Valin & Johnson have the building contract for $1600.

It was published in the December number of Harper's Magazine that Frank Wilkeson would during the year, contribute a series of articles on the cattle interests of the Great West. None of the articles have yet been published, however.

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A., Monday evening, thirty-one new names were presented. This will swell the membership to 63. It is very gratifying to be able to announce the great interest taken by the young men of our city.

Denton, Cable & Hull, of Brookville, have published an "emigrant paper" devoted to the interest of Brookville, which is a credit to them and their city. They prove beyond a question of doubt that Brookville is the hub of the universe.

Messrs. C. A. Hiller and A. B. Dickinson think of starting for New Orleans next Monday. Mr. Dickinson goes on account of his health, which he hopes to see improved by the change of climate. Mr. Hiller makes the trip to attend to some law business in that country.

Prof. Alex. C. Hopkins, of this city, has been appointed assistant professor in the Chicago Correspondence University. The University has a faculty of upward of seventy professors. The entire teaching is done by correspondence and summer institutes. It confers all the usual college degrees.

Mr. C. S. Radcliff speaks in the most complimentary terms of the treatment given the Legislative excursion party by the Leavenworth people. The banquet, the ball, the visit to the Fort, were all most delightful. The officers of the Penitentiary also entertained the party handsomely.

Messrs. Milliken & Patterson opened a General Merchandise store at Bridgeport yesterday. Mr. Milliken is the son of Mr. J. W. Milliken of Mentor. Mr. Patterson has been employed as salesman in Braniff & Conrad's hardware store. Both young men are enterprising and they will no doubt do a fine business in their new location.

The street commissioner has been kept busy keeping up communication between the street rills and the Smoky. He is thus careful of the Salina waters, for he wishes them to mingle with the Smoky's, with the Missouri's, with the Mississippi's, than with the Gulf's, and finally with the sea. He desires them to appear in good shape in so much aristocratic company.

Rev. A. N. See preached his farewell discourse as presiding elder for the Salina charge last Sunday. The Conference meets in March, and the elder has held his last quarterly meeting for Salina. He is an earnest, popular, christian gentleman, whom the people of Salina very much admire, and would be pleased to have him locate here permanently—as he thinks some of doing on account of the new college.

The coal dealers cry "spot cash" and the consumers skirmish about for the wherewithal to comply with the new decree. It was so easy for the consumers to buy coal on credit during the snapping weather, that they didn't for a moment consider how long the purses of the dealers might hold out. The present decree is made for self protection. The possessor of a coal bank, or even a gold bank, could not stand the pressure of unlimited credit.

Mr. Edholm, of the Missouri Pacific, tells us that there is not a shadow of doubt but that Council Grove and Ottawa will be connected this spring by the Missouri Pacific, and that through Pullman cars from Salina to St. Louis will be running. This stage of our business will certainly be a great advantage to travelers going east from this place. Mr. Edholm has no doubt also but that through Pullman cars to Denver from St. Louis will pass through Salina by the Missouri Pacific.

The beautiful historical picture, "Lady Jane Grey interceding for the life of her husband," hanging in the National Mutual Fire Insurance Co.'s office, is to be on exhibition at the Art Loan next week. The Insurance Company expect to purchase a companion picture of the above, of which Mary Queen of Scots is the subject.

Messrs. F. M. Bovie and C. W. Henkling, of the firm of Bovie, Pitts & Co., of Gallipolis, Ohio, are stopping in Salina. Mr. Bovie is an uncle of Mr. H. M. Curry. These gentlemen design engaging in the wholesale grocery trade, having in mind a location either in Salina or Wichita. They are exceedingly well pleased with Salina.

The U. P. Railway Co. have on hand a U. S. land contest at the Salina office. A Mr. McKinney is in possession of the land formerly occupied by Mike Sullivan. It is situated in Ottawa county. Messrs. Monroe & Loomis, attorneys for the railroad, are looking after the road's interest, and Mr. Bond appears for McKinney.

The property owners living on the north side of west Iron avenue are cutting down the hedges, trees and moving back fences, in compliance with the ordinance condemning that strip of land for street purposes. It was a hardship in some particulars, to take the property, but the street already bears a greatly improved appearance.

The "Alabama Minstrels"—they were called; if the walking had been good they would have fulfilled their Salina engagement for Thursday evening. The snow banks were too altitudinous, and they didn't dare to "try the pass" which connects Concordia with Salina. The hotels are thus denied an edification as well as those who held complimentary tickets to the performance.

As near as we can ascertain Saline county has lost a less number of head of stock from the severe weather than any other county in the west half of Kansas. It simply shows that the stock in this county are well cared for in the way of shelter and feed. We have long since discarded the primitive mode of letting the cattle feed on what they can find, and "drift with the storm" for shelter.

Col. Everett writes to Mr. E. H. Gibbs (in answer to an enquiry with reference to the status of the bond elections for the proposed Mo. Pacific route between Council Grove and Oage City) as follows:

We have elections pending in Oage City for $25,000 and Superior township $33,500, in Oage county; $16,000 in Waterloo township and $30,000 in Agnes city township, Lyons county; petitions circulating for $25,000 in Council Grove.

Mr. G. C. Kothe has returned from Pueblo, Colorado, where he has been visiting his sister this winter. During his absence he has had considerable experience in the "snow-bound" business—having been cooped up in a sleeping car for 13 days. Mr. Kothe tells us that Mr. H. M. Sale has sold out his drug business in Pueblo, with the intention of removing to California, where he designs making his permanent residence.

A meeting preliminary to the permanent organization of a debating society, composed of young men exclusively, was held last Tuesday evening at Kraft & Bishop's office. The club will probably be called the "Salina Parliamentary Club," the object of which is to discuss questions of general interest, and to secure to the members readiness in debate and public speaking. The membership is limited to twenty. Meetings will be held weekly.

There is not the least doubt but that Salina will be the end of the Second Division of the Missouri Pacific, and for this reason shops on quite an extensive plan will be located here. The Union Pacific, in consideration of the roads South and Northwest, and being sufficiently near the end of the second division on the main line, will also (beyond a question of doubt) have their shops here. The two forces of men combined with their families, must add nearly if not quite 1000 persons to our population.

We hope our friends will not be paralyzed by the sight of clean walls and ceiling in the JOURNAL office—as clean as paper and calamine under Mr. J. H. Gibson's skillful direction can make them. We have made these improvements under the commands of Dr. Jenney, "eminent commander" for Salina, at least of that august body known as the State Board of Health. If the cholera catches us now it will not be because of unclean walls and ceiling. Come and see us in our highly embellished quarters.

It has been demonstrated that two successful church socials can occur on one and the same evening in Salina. Such was the case last Thursday evening. A Methodist social was held at the residence of Mr. H. H. F. Sudendorf. Music, recitations, maple syrup, doughnuts and hot biscuits and coffee was the bill of fare. At the residence of Mr. B. F. Jenkins, East side, the Baptist church had a social. Considerable rivalry and amusement in the auction business was manifested. Some $30 was the profit of the entertainment. There was a large attendance at both socials.

The Washington correspondent of the Topleks Capitalist thus alludes to Col. W. A. Phillips' new book:

The Col. has a book in press on the land and labor question which will in a few days be issued by the Scribners, of New York. He will be remembered for his advocacy while in Congress of postal saving banks. His work contains a description of all the known systems of land tenure in the world. The chapter on the land policy of the United States is a very readable account of all that has transpired in land matters since the beginning of the government, and the significant changes in land holding that they are going on. One chapter gives an account of the rise, progress and characteristics of corporations in the United States and another has the significant caption "Shadows of the coming American aristocracy."

We are asked to state that on account of the severe weather the ladies of the W. R. C. were not enabled to visit each house for the loan of articles for their fair, as they originally intended. They ask that citizens will be so kind as to leave such articles as they chose at the Fair hall on Friday, or the succeeding days.

The sale of tickets for the Mendelssohn Quintette is not progressing nearly so rapidly as it should. It will be remembered that at least 250 tickets must be sold before the concert is an assured fact. Those who desire to hear the best concert company in the Union should put down their names at once at Whitehead's, and thus help the matter along. If the required number of tickets is sold the concert will be given, but not otherwise.

Mr. Charles J. Mohler is canvassing for John A. Logan's new book—"The Great Conspiracy." It is a work which sells almost as well as Grant's or Blaine's book. No man in this country is so near the popular heart as John A. Logan; and what he has done and observed during his long and brilliant experience in our civil and military history is of intense interest to the American people. Charles has had splendid success with his canvass so far. He says nearly everybody subscribes at the asking. He will call on all our citizens.

The Salina Building Association held their annual meeting last Friday evening and elected the following directors: W. D. Radcliff, G. C. Culp, L. O. Wright, F. C. Miller and G. A. Hiller. The next evening the officers were elected as follows: President, W. D. Radcliff; Vice-President, G. C. Culp; Secretary, L. O. Wright; Treasurer, F. C. Miller; Attorney, C. A. Hiller. The following summary taken from the second annual statement certainly shows that the "building and loan," is a profitable investment:

Real Estate mortgages $2,500.50
Real Estate loans 1,023.21
Outstanding claims 1,023.21
Bal. on hand 412.12
Total assets $3,956.03

Book value of shares, $39.53, being 15 per cent. profit for the average length of time.

The ladies of the Woman's Relief Corps are well along with their arrangements for the series of entertainments to be given by their next week under the name of a Fair and Art Loan. The indications are that the exhibits of heir-looms, curiosities, works of art and fancy fabrics will be most unique and varied. We are glad to hear that their chosen articles with no limitation. The performances each evening will be as attractive and interesting as it is possible for the ladies to make them. Oysters and coffee will be served. You cannot find a pleasanter place in the city than at the Fair and Art Loan each evening. The lower story of the Odd Fellows Hall has been engaged instead of the Opera House, as heretofore announced. Help the good cause by patronizing liberally these entertainments.

Mr. E. O. L. Edholm, Manager of The Great Southwest—a journal published in the interest of the Missouri Pacific Railway system, with a circulation of 30,000 copies—is now in this city for the purpose of writing up Salina and Saline county for his paper. These papers are sent to the agents of the Railway in every State of the Union, and through sub-agents and traveling agents are distributed all over the land—especially in the northern and eastern States. This journal has been published for some twelve years, and has done much to aid immigration. The publication for the month of January was devoted to Sedgewick county and Wichita. The Salina write-up will appear in the March number. Mr. Edholm is a very affable gentleman, and makes a most pleasing impression. He will no doubt secure a large patronage from the Salina people for his periodical.

St. Semper Tyrannus!

A Feast of Wisdom and a Flow of Wit—Ability where it belongs—The race is to the swift—The deer creatures are vindicated, and the slowpokes retreat in disgrace from the Second Waterloo.

'Tis Tuesday night and a goodly number have assembled to see the fun. Despite the storm that rages without, and good humor reigns within, and we are promised an evening of enjoyment. The hour is here, and business begins. The contestants are ranged in double columns, company front upon the rostrum. The ladies on the east, and the gentlemen on the side of the setting sun. Is this an omen from which superstitious people foretell the downfall of the erstwhile victors? We shall see. Upon each contestant a system of words is written "ex libris." The umpire gives the signal and the contest is begun. Wisdom, dignity and strength are arrayed against beauty, gentleness and faith. But, as faith without works is dead, the ladies go at it with a determination to prove to their masters that there is a trifle of ability outside the sterner sex. Messrs. Bond and Fitzpatrick are the plebeians, and Mr. Going scores the tallies. The contestants are fresh, and each one promptly pronounces the words as they come at him.

The best of humor prevails, but as the ladies are determined to have fair play, and protest against words spelled by Mr. Bond because they "are words that we never hear, never use, and don't know how to pronounce." Mr. Bond now proceeds to pitch his curvilinear words at the gentlemen, who begin to score a number of fouls. Again the ladies demand fair play. The advocates of equal rights ask us favors. They are willing to compete on equal ground. The words given to the gentlemen are no test. Mr. Mohler says they are French to him, and it is agreed that Mr. Bond shall decide, which is accordingly done. Now it is time for a recess, which is preceded by an instrumental doct by Miss Sturtevant and Mr. Gotwald, entitled "Chopsticks"—from the manner of using the hands instead of the fingers, which is well received by the audience. The score reports twenty-six misses by the gentlemen and twenty-three by the ladies. The announcement of the result is received with loud applause by the audience. "Chopsticks" is the name of the game, and the gentlemen expect to regain the lost laurels, and carry off the cake in the victory. Time will tell. The oracles of Delphi were subject to its decrees. Recess has lost the charm it had in our school boy days, and we are anxious for the circus to begin. Ah, here it is. Everybody ready, and off we go. Each one, as he misses, withdraws from the list. It is distressing to hear that beautiful and odiferous flower, the dandelion, accented on the second syllable. But it is a modest, helpless and unassuming thing, and cannot defend itself against slander. Such is the heartlessness of woman when she has her victim in her power.

Prof. Fertig is the first to retire. Tally one for equal rights! Wilson follows, having stumbled over the word demise. Prof. Thyoman perhaps did not mean to be derelict, but he went out on the word. Mr. Lovitt now comes to the front and disfranchises himself and retires with becoming grace. Mr. Gotwald is an honest man, and perhaps judges others by himself, and having little occasion to use the negative he falls on dishonest. Others have fallen by the wayside. It looks gloomy for the ladies. All out but two, opposed, five. Smiles become visible among the ladies, for the odds are in their favor. Can two men stand against five? We have scarcely asked the question when Mr. Weaver goes out, and Mr. Garver is the champion of his sex, but the end is not yet. He feels the importance of the situation, and therefore scores to increase. Like the men in backrank, they seem a dozen. Will he hold out? All are breathless. One false step on his part will decide against him. Leonidas the Second defends the pass alone. All his comrades have fallen. He is opposed by five times his number. Five Richmonds have been slain, yet Richmond lives. Bosworth Field pales into insignificance. Not England's fate, but all the world's hangs in the balance. He alone must prove the superiority of man over the "weaker vessel." He who stood undaunted at the bar, opposed by men of power, will he prove his mettle in this time of need? Alas, he has no poetry in his soul. Distich is too much for him, and he, the last of the Spartans, is carried off on his shield.

Loud cheering by the audience. The ladies are vindicated, and have won a crown of victory.

The contest now comes among the ladies. Who shall have the cake? One by one they step out, and at last Mrs. Prescott, who like Banquo's ghost, would not down. She takes the cake, and again we are met with a deafening cheer.

Thus ends the evening entertainment, and we all go our several ways home, feeling that we have had an evening of enjoyment.

We also appreciate how little we know when pressed to the wall; how far we are from accuracy in pronunciation of common words. Much good may result from this evening's lesson, if we will but heed it.

We are glad we went, and would do it again. What next?
